

A

Brief History of Vital Force Technology™

and Guide to the Practical Benefits of the Vital Force Enhancement Process

We are pleased to introduce you to the exciting world of Vital Force Technology™. Developed by Dr. Yury Kronn, Russian radiophysicist and inventor, Vital Force Technology™ is an extraordinary technological breakthrough we believe holds unique promise for the 21st century. It is our hope that applications of this technology will be of service in meeting the many challenges of our times.

The history of Vital Force Technology™ goes back more than twenty years to Russia where Dr. Yury Kronn was one of the leading theoreticians in high frequency electromagnetic vibrations, laser physics and non-linear optics. Renowned as an innovator, inventor and creative theorist he had long been known for his special aptitude in tying together disparate theories and explaining phenomena that had puzzled scientists for years. In 1978 he was invited to view and comment upon demonstrations of paranormal phenomena given by two powerful Russian psychics. He was astonished by what he saw and in the following years participated in extensive research with fellow physicists in an effort to understand the nature of these phenomena. Eventually he came to the realization that there was no explanation to be found within the realms of conventional physics. When he recovered from his shock, he immediately began to look elsewhere for information about the mysterious forces at work in the events he had witnessed. These events changed the course of his life and ultimately led to the development of Vital Force Technology™.

Over the next 30 years Dr Kronn integrated his knowledge about the nature and governing properties of matter, energy and the structure of the Universe with information provided by unconventional researchers and a long term study of what ancient cultures had to say about the energy they called the Universal Life Force.

As he pulled together the pieces of this huge puzzle synthesizing information provided over centuries and across cultures Dr. Kronn developed a more comprehensive idea about the composition and mechanisms of operation of what the modern scientific community calls the subatomic world. He learned that this realm of subatomic particles, quarks, pre-physical energy and matter whose effects can be observed but not measured, is like a universal primordial

A

Brief History of Vital Force Technology™

and Guide to the Practical Benefits of the Vital Force Enhancement Process

energy soup from which the physical world of protons, neutrons and electrons is created. He had realized by this time that the energy at work in the demonstrations given by the Russian psychics originated on this subtle level. (In fact many call this energy “subtle energy”). Further, he began to understand the mechanism of interaction between the subatomic and atomic (physical) worlds. This was the key to the development of Vital Force Technology™.

After years of experimentation, Dr. Kronn successfully created plasma based computerized equipment that accessed the point of connection between the atomic and subatomic spheres, and made it possible to generate the energy signatures of highly differentiated subtle energies. In other words, this technology can harness subtle energy in the same way that conventional science and technology harnesses electromagnetic energy. Vital Force Technology™ is a three part process that produces standardized, repeatable results so that subtle energy patterns can be created, stored and then imprinted into almost any substance and added as an ingredient to any manufacturing process.

What does this Vital Force cutting edge science mean for manufacturers of health products?

Every manufacturer would like to be a leader in their field. The Vital Force advantage can put you there with totally unique, distinctive, high quality products that will set you apart from your competitors. The Vital Force enhancement process is cost effective, efficient, and cannot be duplicated. Working with the Vital Force team you can create custom formulas to enhance the performance of your product and better meet your client's needs.

How does subtle energy work?

Though there are many applications for the subtle energy formulations produced by Vital Force Technology™ a brief description of how subtle energy works in the body is helpful in understanding how subtle energy effects physical matter in general. An easy comparison can be made by comparing this process to the way a TV works. The electronic system of the TV receives and decodes sophisticated electromagnetic signals from a transmitter and converts them

A

Brief History of Vital Force Technology™

and Guide to the Practical Benefits of the Vital Force Enhancement Process

into pictures on the screen. Analogously, the energetic system functions as the receiver, distributor and decoder of subtle energy, the informational “software” for all of the body's processes from the cellular to the systemic level, like the autonomic nervous system and the brain. Depending on the specific information conveyed receptor cells are stimulated in different ways, such as to reduce stress or stimulate communication between the brain and muscles to name two examples.

Thanks to the work of today's pioneers in the fields of integrative and energy medicine there has been a significant shift in perspective in the healthcare industry in recent decades. The recognition that many health issues are a result of disruptions of the energetic system and need to be addressed at this level has changed the way many people think about health and wellness. Therefore, for innovative manufacturers who want to distinguish themselves from the competition with fast acting formulations that do more than treat symptoms, the Vital Force process can provide a truly unique opportunity to enhance products and benefit customers with subtle energy formulations that cannot be imitated. Like an octane booster in an automobile, the technology can significantly enhance the existing benefits of any product or substance. The Vital Force subtle energy formulations can be imprinted into almost any natural and manmade material including essential oils, herbs, herbal tinctures, jewelry, industrial crystals, glass, and plastics. Research is currently underway on a number of industrial and agricultural applications such as enhancing seed germination and viability and for reducing EMF pollution. Polymers and industrial crystals imprinted with specific subtle energy formulations have been shown to help the body compensate for the effects of energetic distortion coming into the brain and body by modulated EMF signals from cell phones, computers, microwaves and other electrical appliances.

Recent research conducted by Dr. Kronn and his colleague Dr. Joie Jones at the University of CA, Irvine, produced remarkable results that demonstrated the power of several Vital Force subtle energy formulas to protect and revitalize cells damaged by gamma radiation in laboratory experiments. (Further information is available upon request.)

A

Brief History of Vital Force Technology™ and Guide to the Practical Benefits of the Vital Force Enhancement Process

There are three basic components of the Vital Force Technology™ of particular interest to the manufacturer:

- 1. The ability to generate and record custom energy patterns for permanent storage in an extensive computerized library
- 2. The ability to imprint specific patterns into a wide variety of materials and products
- 3. The ability to reproduce the benefits of that imprinting through a consistent, repeatable, standardized production system

Imprinted Vital Force formulas modulate the energetic characteristics of the treated material. The resulting effect can significantly enhance the treated material for a wide range of positive, desirable and cost effective benefits. Our custom formulas are designed for and secured by the manufacturer on an exclusive basis. For the company seeking to create brand distinction and industry leadership partnering with Vital Force will open a new world of possibilities.

Please feel free to contact us with any questions you may have. We look forward to talking with you and discussing ways to design custom formulas to suit your product and client needs.