

Vital Force Technology™ is based on the same subtle energy fields that have been utilized for thousands of years in the practices of Traditional Chinese Medicine

Vital Force Technology™ (VFT) was developed by Russian researcher, quantum radiophysicist and inventor Dr. Yury Kronn. It is based on the same subtle energy fields that have been utilized for thousands of years in the practices of Traditional Chinese Medicine. Like acupuncture, practical applications of Vital Force Technology™ have a proven track record even though modern science has yet to formally recognize the existence of subtle energy.

VFT involves a three-part process comprised of a tunable plasma based generator that is able to generate and formulate subtle energy patterns, a storage system, and an infusing system that can infuse these patterns into almost any substance. This process creates safe, stable and repeatable formulations of subtle energy that can be targeted for specific biological functions whether physiological, psychological, mental or spiritual, for application in a variety of industries and contexts.

The most significant features of VFT that distinguish it from all other subtle energy technologies in the marketplace today are its tunable generator and ability to do the following:

- 1. Generate the energetic blueprints of any of the Periodic Table Elements, which are the building blocks of all substances in the physical world. VFT makes it possible to utilize the unique healing properties of Periodic Table Elements while escaping the side effects produced by their chemical counterparts; for example, the energetic pattern of Lithium is effective against depression; Germanium supports the immune system, etc.
- 2. Reproduce with great precision the energetic blueprints of any substance (including herbs, essential oils, gems and minerals), and infuse these energetic blueprints into other (carrier) substances. This ability makes it possible to dramatically improve the benefits of existing products with energetic formulas derived from rare or expensive materials such as rare herbs, essential oils or expensive precious stones.

3. Produce Subtle Energy patterns with controllable properties defined by Traditional Chinese Medicine as “The Five Elements”. As a result VFT has created complex energetic formulas following the time tested rules used in Traditional Chinese Medicine, for example, energy infused topicals to influence the acupuncture meridians without needles (non-invasive acupuncture).

These unique characteristics of VFT make it possible to create specifically targeted energetic formulas in a way that is similar to the process of blending herbal or homeopathic formulas. Though both VFT formulas and homeopathic preparations are subtle energy based remedies, Vital Force Technology takes the concept of energetic remedies to a new, more advanced level:

1. VFT formulas are much more energetically powerful and consequently more stable in response to external influences like electrical and magnetic fields and x-rays.
2. Since VFT is not restricted to “copying” information from existing substances but is able to generate unlimited variations of energetic patterns with “elemental properties”, it has opened the door for experiments to find more effective energies for specific targeted applications. An example of such a formula is “Stress Relief”, which relieves anxiety at a speed unknown in the world of anti-stress remedies.
3. In general, “VFT formulas have a deeper, faster, broader influence and are more effective than regular homeopathics”. (Dr. S. Davis, DC, NMD, Redding CA.) The effects of homeopathics are usually enhanced by infusing them with appropriate VFT formulas.

The unique ability of VFT to generate an infinite number of subtle energy configurations that can be combined, tested and restructured as application requires puts this technology in a category by itself. Using VFT it is possible to create subtle energy formulations of a highly sophisticated nature. Where electromagnetic energy has only two parameters, frequency and intensity, subtle energy has an array of qualities best explained by Traditional Chinese Medicine's Five Element Theory which uses the analogy of the interaction of Water, Wood, Fire, Earth and Metal to describe the way subtle energy behaves. The beauty of this system is that it provides a relatively simple framework for understanding and making practical use of the complex inter-relationships of different qualities of subtle energy. Dr. Yury Kronn's extensive research into the Five Element Theory and Traditional Chinese Medicine supplied him with an excellent foundation for formulating sophisticated patterns of subtle energy and their fine tuned combinations to promote and achieve a state of balanced flow of energy throughout the human system.

VFT offers inexpensive stand-alone products that have been field tested widely by health practitioners in clinics and private practices throughout North America. These practitioners and their clients report excellent results. The Vital Force infusion process has also been used to create cost effective 'ingredients' that can be simply added to any manufacturing process to dramatically enhance the biological effects of nutritional products and topical formulations. We can easily infuse any substance from liquids and lotions to tinctures, supplements and powders.

Vital Force™ Subtle Energy products have been successfully marketed to healthcare professionals and manufacturers by its distribution company Energy Tools International, LLC for over 8 years.
