Vital Force Formulas™ Rejuvenate Cells Damaged by Gamma Radiation

Prof. Joie P. Jones
University of California – Irvine

An experiment conducted by Prof. Jones in the Department of Radiological Sciences, showed that introducing liquids subjected to VFT emissions to cultures of HeLa cells radiated by gamma rays, revived over 80% of cells, in comparison with 50% of the cells that survived in the control samples. The effect was maximal when the infused liquids were added before and after radiation and just a bit less than maximal (78%) if they were added only after radiation. The continuation of this research could lead to the development of methods for protecting the body from the effects of radiation and helping to revitalize the systems of patients undergoing radiation and chemotherapy.

Excitation of the Visual Cortex with Substances Infused by Vital Force Technology™ as Registered Using Functional MRI

Dr. Joie P. Jones and his colleagues published their findings about excitation of the visual cortex in the brain when the vision related acupuncture point BL67 was stimulated using an acupuncture needle or ultrasound.

Dr. Jones repeated his experiments with Vital Force™ processed substances to verify that the VFT process enables them to stimulate acupuncture meridians. Fig. 8 shows the excitation of the visual cortex, registered with fMRI, by oil infused with the Vital Force™ Formula for the bladder meridian and applied to acupoint BL67. It can be seen that the excitation caused by the energy infused oil is similar to that produced by an acupuncture needle or ultrasound. Un-infused oil did not have any effect. The excitation was also observed with a body lotion infused with the same Vital Force™ Formula. It demonstrates that the effect is determined not by the substance but by the formula infused into it. The result suggests that the nature of subtle energy generated by VFT is identical to that of the energy referred to as “Chi”. The fact that the Vital Force™ process enables substances to stimulate acupuncture meridians as observed with the most sensitive instrument in the world, MRI, proves that the process makes substances bioactive for the regulatory system of the body. This may explain the extraordinary effectiveness of Vital Force™ infused substances for balancing and invigorating the Autonomic Nervous System.
